

New Jersey Expediting Super Highway To Poconos

NEW JERSEY highway authorities are moving to expedite final federal approval of the proposed $387,000,000 expressway from the George Washington Bridge in New York City to the Pennsylvania line at Delaware Water Gap. Dwight R. G. Palmer, state highway commissioner, ordered a public hearing on Feb. 20 on the routing of the new interstate freeway through East Paterson, Saddle Brook, Lodi and Rochelle Park. The New York Times reported yesterday in a dispatch from Trenton, N. J.

A similar hearing on the route through much of Morris County was held recently. Hearings on the rest of the proposed 72-mile route are scheduled during the next few weeks. They are the last step the state must take before final federal endorsement is granted to this section of the federal aid interstate system, The Times said.

Extending from the Hudson to the Delaware Rivers, the expressway will facilitate the speedy movement of heavy traffic between New York City and the Pocono Mountains area where the highway will join the proposed four-lane Key-stone Shortway, also a federal aid project.

These two multi-lane free-ways are the last important major links on the shortest possible overland route between New York and Chicago. The first five-mile stretch of the New Jersey Expressway is now under construction in the Denville-Netcong area and another three-mile section will be started before June, Palmer hopes that construction on the rest of the road can be started by this fall.

Besides the traffic lanes, the new road will have a center island broad enough to accommodate any rapid rail transit facilities that might be desired in the future, according to The Times.

To be designated U. S. Route 101, the expressway is expected to attract most of the interstate traffic now using U. S. 46, an almost parallel highway.

The Federal Government has agreed to underwrite 90 per cent of the project's cost and the Port of New York Authority will contribute about $24,000,000. The balance of the financing will be assumed by the state.

To prepare for the expected increase in traffic, the Port Authority is planning to double-deck the George Washington Bridge and to improve the Manhattan and New Jersey approaches.

The route finally decided on by the state is the result of two years of study and planning, The Times said.

Even after the route is approved by the Federal Bureau of Roads, the exact line is not expected to be made public. Before such action, the state would prefer to acquire the major part of the right-of-way.

The section involved in the Feb. 20 hearing is four and one-half miles long and will include more than a dozen bridges and viaducts.

More than 50 per cent of the traffic for this section is expected to come from Bergen County.

Tallamy Gives 'Blessing' To Area Thruway

Trial Ordered For Seven In Depot Fraud

SCRANTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—U. S. Dist. Judge John W. Murphy ruled today that Rep. William J. Green (D-Pa.) and six others must stand trial "shortly" on fraud charges stemming from construction of the $33 million dollar U. S. Signal Corps depot at Tobyhanna.

The federal jurist handed down an opinion in response to a number of pleas by Green and six other defendants in the case, including former Congressman Herbert J. McGlinchey.

In addition to Green, Democratic city chairman in Philadelphia, and McGlinchey, also a Philadelphian, the defendants are: John F. Gilboy Jr., former Scranton businessman now living in Norristown; and these contractors—Joseph Rochez, Pittsburgh; Frederick J. Raff, Hartford, Conn.; Robert W. Brown, Merchantville, N.J.; and John B. Kemmel, Philadelphia.

Judge Murphy did not set a definite date for the trial of the seven, but in his ruling said they must be tried jointly with the trial "shortly forthcoming."

Dismissal Requests

All seven had asked that the indictments naming them be dismissed. This motion was among those denied by Judge Murphy.

The jurist also refused a request by Rep. Green and Rochez for a bill of particulars. Judge Murphy rejected a plea by Green, Raff and Brown for separate trials, and he turned down Green's request that his trial be shifted from the federal court here to Harrisburg to make attendance easier for witnesses.

The seven men were indicted after a 15-month grand jury investigation into the construction of the big signal corp installation in eastern Pennsylvania. The probe looked into charges of conspiracy, bribery, and extortion.

Green was accused specifically of accepting a $10,000 bribe from contractor Raff, who was awarded a $2,660,000 plumbing and heating contract at the Tobyhanna project.

The congressman also is accused of writing performance bonds for contractors and of using his office to win the bonds against outside competition.

Green had no privilege of immunity because of his federal office since the indictment involved a felony.

Yesterday's Deaths

Mrs. Louise B. LaBar, 90, of 902 Bryant St., Stroudsburg, died yesterday at the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Mrs. Sarah Ellen Whitaker, 90, of Bushkill, died Wednesday at 9:10 p.m. in Glen Gardner, N. J.

Donna Lee Altomose, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Altomose, Brodheadsville, died yesterday at 12:50 a.m.

Forrest Burrows, 60, of 500 Scott St., Stroudsburg, died in New York on Wednesday.

Trogner Denies Report On Plan A

ARTHUR M. Trogner, chairman of the Citizens By-Pass Committee of Monroe County, late yesterday informed The Daily Record that, contrary to reports circulating in the community, the Line A proposal for the Stroudsburg Thruway had not received official federal approval.

"The story is not true and I'd advise you not to print it," Trogner told a representative of the newspaper.

When pressed for an explanation, the committee chairman said, "I called Mr. Stinson (John L. Stinson, division engineer for the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in Harrisburg) and he told me he has not forwarded any recommendation (for Line A) to the Bureau of Roads."

(Congressman Francis E. Walter had previously informed The Daily Record that, as far as the Bureau of Roads was concerned, the State Highways Department could advertise for bids on the Thruway at any time. He made the statement after conferring with Bertram D. Tallamy, federal highway administrator).

Trogner was told of the Walter statement and reminded that Tallamy is head of the Bureau of Roads and therefore the boss over Stinson.

"I can't help it," Trogner said, "he (Stinson) has assured me he has not made any recommendation" as the result of the public hearing held here on Jan. 14.

The Citizens Committee is opposing Line A in preference to what it calls Line F, which would by-pass the Stroudsburgs to the north.

21 Killed In British Plane Crash

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 6 (AP)—A British airliner carrying Britain's champion football team home from Yugoslavia crashed and burned on its third try to take off in a snowstorm today and plunged the European sports world into mourning.

Twenty-one persons were reported killed. Among them were seven football men, eight British sports writers and a member of the plane's crew.

The measure of tragedy was much as though an American World Series baseball champion team had suffered a similar loss. Queen Elizabeth II was among the mourners.

The Munich police department announced the official death toll of 21 and said 23 others survived but some were undergoing desperate emergency operations to keep them alive.

Two Others

Police feared two Germans were also killed when the plunging plane struck a house and a gasoline shed.

Seat straps trapped some passengers in the flaming wreckage. The twin-engine Elizabethan of the British European Airways had halted here for refuelling en route to London from Belgrade where the Manchester United soccer team played Yugoslavia's Red Star team to a 3-3 tie yesterday and advanced to the semi-finals of the European Cup matches.

Eleven sports writers were with the team. Peter Howard and E. A. Ellyard of the Manchester Daily Mail were among the survivors.

But Frank Swift of the London News of the World, a former goal keeper star who played 19 times for England before World War II and then became a sports writer, died on the operating table in a hospital.

Girl, Boy Drown Near Columbia

COLUMBIA, N. J.—A young farmhand and the girl he was hauling from the frigid waters of the Paulinskill River were drowned yesterday afternoon when they were swept into deep water.

As the youth and the girl holding tightly to his neck disappeared the girl's father and two other men unsuccessfully tried to get to the spot, 40 feet from shore.

As the youth and the girl cue workers recovered the bodies of Frederick Miller, 17, of nearby Hainesburg, and Linda Darlene Frutchey, 6, who lived on a farm near here.

Police said the girl's father, Delbert, who was working nearby and her mother, who was caring for two other children in the family house on the banks of the stream, came running as they heard the girl's screams.

Playing on Ice

Police said the girl had been playing on the river ice and fell in.

Miller was working on a neighboring farm and also came running. First he tried to get a boat locked on the stream bank free and then he waded out to the girl, crashing through the ice as he went.

As Miller waded out, the girl, apparently standing on a high spot in the stream bed, whimpered, "Mommy, Mommy, I'm freezing."

But, just as Miller got to Linda's side, the pair slipped into deep water.

The girl's father and two other men who had arrived at the scene meantime tried to break the boat free.

Failing this they attempted to wade to the spot where Miller and the girl vanished but couldn't find the two.

Rescue squads from nearby towns and state police from the Washington and Blairtown barracks were summoned to the Sipple farm near the banks of the Delaware River.

When the two bodies were recovered, the rescue workers worked over them 45 minutes before doctors pronounced the pair dead.

Walter Forwards Word From Washington

BERTRAM TALLAMY, Commissioner of Public Roads, gave his "blessing" to the Stroudsburg Thruway yesterday at a meeting with Rep. Francis E. Walter in Washington.

Walter advised the Daily Record by telephone that Tallamy said there was no reason why the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania's Highway Department should not proceed promptly with prosecution of the Thruway project for Stroudsburg.

The congressman communicated on the Thruway speed-up, he said, with the hope that the state "will clear up the loose ends immediately so it will become one of the first highway projects undertaken to alleviate unemployment in concert with Gov. (George M.) Leader's crash program" for combating joblessness.

Federal Program

The Thruway is included in the federal interstate road program in which the federal government pays 90 percent of the cost and the state 10 percent. Cost of the project has been estimated at more than $10,000,000.

After the conference, Rep. Walter called Gov. Leader to advise him of Tallamy's statement. He also expressed his desire that the state clear up any details standing in the way of immediate advertising for bids.

Congressman Walter told The Record he plans to have a complete study made of any and all projects involving federal funds to be sure that the bureau's and state's plans coincide. Purpose of this move, he said, is to avoid delays in starting construction.

Air Force Recovers Vanguard

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Feb. 6 (AP)—The Air Force recovered a major part of the wreckage of the Vanguard test vehicle today and the Navy said defective wiring probably caused the huge rocket to go astray.

Much of the first stage of the three-stage rocket was hauled out of the ocean a few miles off the launching area yesterday. More parts, including a portion of the second stage, were recovered today.

Breaks Apart

The rocket, bearing a small satellite in its nose, broke apart four miles above its launching site early Wednesday only a minute after leaving the ground.

The Office of Naval Research and the Naval Research Laboratory said in a joint statement that as far as could be determined there was "no device that malfunctioned."

They said there apparently was a defect in the wiring connecting the automatic pilot and the hydraulic "servo" system of the first stage.

The servo is a kind of robot which carries out electronic impulses transmitted from the automatic pilot.

The Navy said that when the rocket began to deviate from its course, the correcting signal from the auto pilot was unable to reach the servo system which would have issued an electronic command in the first stage correcting the position of the rocket engine.

It was learned independently that the behavior of the ill-fated rocket and of its main-stage engine under the terrible stresses that tore at them gave the Navy new assurance that its space research vehicle basically is sound and capable of doing its job.

Improvement Of Schools Depends On Assistance From Nation, State

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the eighth in a series of articles to be written by Leonard Randolph, who was a first hand observer at Gov. George Leader's state education conference in Harrisburg last week.)

By Leonard Randolph

"THE SCHOOLS can be improved only as the intellectual climate of the Commonwealth and the Nation is improved. A climate of increased respect for education, teachers and intellectual achievement is necessary to nurture a first-rate educational system."

With those words the Governor's Advisory Committee on Public Education begins its introduction to the report it is to make to Gov. George M. Leader. Copies of the brief introduction were distributed to delegates to the Conference on Improvement of Instruction in Harrisburg.

Although it was seldom verbalized, except in connection with specific points such as discussions of "the gifted," this was, perhaps, the basic, underlying theme of the Harrisburg conference.

Most of the educators at that conference have had to ride through some uneasy anti-intellectual storms in recent years. Fighting, as they often must, the natural resistance to education in the minds of some students, they have also been forced to wear the brand "egghead" in public. The brand was not particularly "popular" at the time.

The problem facing many educators today, therefore, is one of rebuilding public respect and confidence in intellectualism—or the human mind.

They were given a tremendous, if totally unexpected, assist when Russia scored a scientific coup with the space satellite. Since then American advances have restored "face" on the international level.

But the artificial moon battle bears little relationship to the overall education problem. One is a matter of prestige. The other is a matter of national progress and survival.

During recent years, educators at the Harrisburg conference noted, there have been several efforts to swing the pendulum partly back in favor of genuine learning and knowledge. Grants for scholarships have been made by large corporations. Some privately-endowed colleges with funds on their hands have begun to "search" for brilliant students who want to continue their education.

Today the talks grow. There are proposals for State-financed scholarship programs. The Federal government is being asked to aid science students in furthering their education.

The interest in obtaining students for college who want to become "brains" is now, at least, on a par with the age-old and continuing quest for good halfbacks or quarterbacks who will keep the alumni happy with a top-ranking team.

In 1958, American education—founded in intellectual fiber which produced a man of Abraham Lincoln's dogged and determined learning and which honored men of his kind—seems ready to reach for first things first.

"If we're going to accomplish anything, we've got to restore pride in education. We've got to give the same honor to the boy with the brilliant mind as we do to the boy who makes the touchdowns," one man summed it up after the conference sessions were under way.

That is the real crisis. It touches the life of everyone in every community in Pennsylvania and America.

It is, in its own way, a lesson we may have needed, desperately, to learn.

Senate Creates Committee To Assist In Planning Exploration, Conquest Of Space

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Senate created a special committee today to help plan for American exploration and conquest of outer space.

Thirteen senior senators will be appointed to the policy group. The chairman may be Democratic Leader Johnson of Texas, who proposed the committee.

"This movement into space will dominate the affairs of mankind just as the exploration of the Western Hemisphere dominated the affairs of mankind in the 16th and 17th centuries," Johnson said.

There were several other major developments in the nation's effort to pull abreast of the Soviet Union in the missile-satellite race and adjust U.S. defenses to the space age.

The House passed and sent to President Eisenhower a bill appropriating $1,410,000,000 for more missiles and atomic submarines, and improved air defense. The money is for the present fiscal year, which ends June 30.

The House and Senate approved compromise legislation affirming the Defense Department's authority to proceed with its ballistic missile program and putting Secretary of Defense McElroy in charge of outer space projects for the next year. The language is contained in a defense authorization bill which now goes to the White House.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission declared it was imperative to undertake a national project for nuclear propulsion of peaceful outer space vehicles. He discussed the idea before a Senate- House Atomic Energy subcommittee.

It was learned the Air Force has offered to try to put a 1,000-pound satellite into orbit by June, using its Thor, an intermediate - range ballistic missile. So far the Air Force has not been authorized to enter the satellite program.

The Navy notified Congress it is cutting every corner it can to get its Polaris combat team ready in two years and possibly sooner. The Polaris is a 1,500-mile missile designed to be fired from atomic submarines either above or below the water.

The Senate vote for a special space committee was 78-1 with Sen. Ellender (D-La.) the lone dissenter.

Ellender's opposition was not explained.

A $150,000 operating fund was approved for the space committee and it was charged with producing by June 1 or shortly thereafter a comprehensive plan to guide U.S. civilian and military attempts to navigate space and reach heavenly bodies.

Gunman Robs Bank Of $14,614

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—A goateed gunman used a woman and two children as his shield today in the $14,614 stickup of a Bronx bank. He forced a second woman and the bank manager to canvass the tellers' cages and stuff his loot into shopping bags.

"I thought this only happened in the movies," said the woman who was pressed into servitude as a messenger. "The man said, 'Hey, miss, take this bag and get all the money.' I saw his gun and I listened to him."

No Identity

Police would not disclose the woman's identity.

The stickup man, a Negro, herded the other woman and the two children out of the bank with him. Police at first believed he carried them off as hostages. Later, however, they decided he turned them loose outside the bank before he fled.

When he entered the bank the gunman seized one of the children, a lame girl, and ordered employees and customers to obey his orders.

"I'll shoot the kid if you don't," he warned.

The bank was a Manufacturers Trust Co. branch at Third Ave. and 155th St. It was the scene of a $12,680 holdup in 1952. Two of the earlier bandits were shot to death by police and a third was sent to prison.

$21,000 Budget At Water Gap

DELAWARE WATER GAP—A $21,000 budget was adopted by borough council at a meeting Monday night.

It provides for the same tax rate as last year, 18 mills for borough use, three mills for debt service and a $5 per capita levy.

Kids for a new borough truck and police car were authorized and Edward C. Hess, borough engineer, reported he is surveying a site for a new reservoir.

Approval Council went on record as approving the State Highways Dept. plan for the Route 611 Thruway with the exception of the local exit.

Named to committees were Willard Kitchen, water; Russell Schellenberger, streets and lights; Christie Shull, budget and finance; Francis Drake, land, park and equipment, and Robert Hay, police.

Clifford Hauser was appointed to fill the council term of Guyton Kemper, who has moved from the borough.

U.S. Urged To Seize Initiative

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 6 (AP)—The director of the National Science Foundation said today that the United States must seize the initiative in the space age and not be forced into crash programs to compete with the Russians.

Dr. Alan T. Waterman said that, because of Russia's scientific successes, "the American people sense that they have lost a particular, spectacular race, or rather let us say, the first heat in that race."

But America's failure, he added, "is not a lack of technical competence but the failure to appreciate the full significance of the new era and of the course we must take."

"Specifically," he said, "in our education system we are not realizing our full potentialities in professional manpower. Immediate attention must be focused on manpower capabilities in science and engineering, without which we cannot compete."

Second Place "In the second place," he continued, "we have not been providing the full support needed for our progress in science."

Waterman addressed a session of a two-day Yale University conference sponsored jointly by the President's Committee on Scientists and Engineers and the William Benton Foundation.

The United States, Waterman said, has been aware of strong competition in science and technology for some time.

Adventists Plan For Services

TO CONCLUDE the week emphasizing "The Christian Home and Family Altar," the Seventh-Day Adventist congregation will hear Elder J. N. Morgan at the 9:15 a.m. service tomorrow.

Pastor Morgan, coming from the Reading office of the East Pennsylvania Conference where he directs the Missionary Volunteer Temperance and Public Relations work for 58 churches, will speak on "The Easy Way to Heaven."

Morgan with his wife and three children now reside in Reading. He is a graduate of Southern Missionary College, Chattanooga, Tenn., and has been in the ministry for 10 years. Before being called to direct the conference work the speaker was pastor of the Greenville, S. C. church.

Yotuh Service Today at 7:45 p.m. the weekly M. V. service will be held under the leadership of Mrs. Gerard Freeman who said the topic will be "With Brotherly Love," the life story of W. A. Spicer, a pioneer missionary to India.

Spicer Missionary College is named for this missionary. He served as world president of Adventists and authored several books, among them "Our Day in the Light of Prophecy."

The program will include several talks and readings by members with music and group singing directed by Tom Foulkes Jr.

District Rally Tomorrow at 3 p.m. there will be a district rally at Iram Temple in Wilkes-Barre when members and delegates from 15 churches will meet to become better acquainted with the needs and the expansion program for Blue Mountain Academy, one of the denominations 346 secondary schools, near Hamburg, Pa.

Building Must Be Reported To County

$1,000 Jobs Covered In State Law

A LAW requiring reports to Monroe County on any construction or improvement to property amounting to $1,000 or more is now in effect in Monroe County.

Such reports are provided for by Pennsylvania law. The law was passed in 1952 by the General Assembly. It is part of the Tax Equalization law for this State.

Under terms of the law, this is what must be done, according to County Commissioners and L. A. Achterman, County Solicitor:

Improvement

If a property owner wishes to improve his property either through construction addition or other work, including erection of new buildings, he is required to report such construction to the County within 30 days after work has begun.

A standard report form is now being prepared by the County. It will be issued to property owners on demand when they undertake construction projects.

Information on improvements or construction is to be furnished directly to Chief Assessor George Brands. It must include the name and address of the person owning the property, a description of the property sufficient enough to identify it, the nature of the improvements made or to be made and the amount in dollars of the value of the improvements.

Not included in this requirement will be improvements to property which involve painting or normal repairs to buildings totaling less than $1,000 annually.

There is a penalty under the law for failure to comply. Any person who willfully fails to comply with provisions of the law or falsifies information he turns in is subject to a fine of not more than $50.

Enforcement

In announcing enforcement of the new law, Achterman said yesterday:

"The law was passed by the Pennsylvania Legislature. It is part of the Tax Equalization Law of this State. The Commissioners of Monroe County have been ordered and directed to place in force and effect the entire law, including the section concerning construction reports.

"No political sub-division in Monroe County has now in effect any ordinance requiring building permits, although the Borough of East Stroudsburg has a building code which has not been enforced. Therefore, the County Commissioners are compelled to place in force the section of the law.

"All property owners now constructing buildings upon their property or making improvements to them and all contractors engaged in such work are required to file the information required with the office of the Chief Assessor in Monroe County Court House in Stroudsburg. Forms for compliance with the law are available at the Chief Assessor's office."

AFL-CIO To Carry Feud

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 6 (AP)—The AFL-CIO today decided to continue its feud with the Teamsters Union on a cold war rather than a hot war basis.

The federation's Executive Council considered but shelved plans to try to woo Teamsters locals away from the parent truck union and cancel pacts with AFL-CIO unions still maintain with the Teamsters.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said the decision to hold back now on any open war was based on faint hope that reform-minded elements within the Teamsters may be able to make some headway.

There were indications Meany favored a stronger hand, but other AFL-CIO chiefs prevailed in going slow for the time being. The federation expelled the Teamsters two months ago on corruption charges.

Commissioners Approve Survey

COUNTY Commissioners yesterday authorized a complete survey of office and storage space available in Monroe County-owned buildings.

The survey will be conducted by the architectural firm of Rinker and Kiefer, Stroudsburg.

It is designed to show what work will be needed to make room for:

1 — The County's new tax equalization system when it is completed. This will include assessment records, tax mapping equipment and storage, equipment for assessment files and mailing and processing machinery to be used in the program. It would be part of the Chief Assessor's general offices.

2 — Relocation of Civil Defense headquarters. These offices are now located on the first floor of the County Court House.

The space available in the present location will not be sufficient if and when the CD unit purchases a radio base station. The first floor location is also considered undesirable.

Commissioners said, since the County's main CD office should be in a heavily protected, below-ground area in event of enemy attack.

3 — Possible relocation of County education offices if the tax equalization system is established in the present school headquarters on N. Seventh St. in Court House Square. The school office is believed to be the most likely site for the tax equalization headquarters, since it is located near the Court House and is a single-unit, self-enclosed building where all the Chief Assessor's functions could be carried out under the new system. A building addition would probably be needed, however.

Claude Mader To Serve As Deputy

CLAUDE MADER, of 75½ Washington St., East Stroudsburg, is now serving as an outside deputy at Monroe County Jail.

Sheriff Jacob Altomose said yesterday that Mader has replaced Leonard Hippler in the jail post.

Mader assumed duties at the jail on Jan. 1. He is not filling the post vacated by the resignation of Henry McCool. That post—chief deputy—remains open at the moment.

Sheriff Altomose said yesterday that he is now in the process of studying the administrative needs at the jail to determine whether or not the post should be filled at all.

If possible, the sheriff said, he may try to take over the chief deputy's duties along with his own and eliminate the post from the jail system at least on a temporary basis.

Firemen Air Plans For Program

DONALD Gage and Frank Read of the Acme Hose Co. outlined plans for the four-county firemen's convention to be held in East Stroudsburg starting June 15 at a meeting of the East Stroudsburg Businessmen's Assn. last night.

The program will begin with special church services on Sunday, June 15. Also scheduled during the week are fireworks display, beauty contest and water folies.

Act On Plea
Rep. Hanford S. Cleveland urged members to write the Monroe County Commissioners asking them to act on a plea from the Mount Pocono Airport Authority for $16,000 needed to finance lighting at the airport.

Cleveland told the group the county stands to lose a $500,000 airport if the $16,000 is not raised.

A letter was read from Burgess Jesse R. S. Flory, complimenting the association on its Christmas decorations and signs.

The membership committee reported two new members.

Invitations For Parade Almost Ready

POSTERS advertising events to be featured during the Four-County Firemen's Convention in East Stroudsburg and invitations to participate in the parade held in conjunction with the convention will be in the mail next week.

All committees for the event, scheduled for the week of June 15, reported at a meeting this week.

General Chairman
Marvin Abel, president of the four-county organization, is general chairman for the convention.

The four counties involved are Monroe, Carbon, Northampton and Lehigh.

Milton Issues New Program

BALTIMORE, Feb. 5 (AP)—Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University, today advanced a new education program to combat what he called a tendency toward decreased quality, "if not mediocrity," in the nation's secondary school system.

Dr. Eisenhower, a brother of President Eisenhower, offered his suggestions in a speech before the Baltimore Advertising Club, which gave him its annual award as "Man of the Year."

Cutback

In effect, he called for a cutback in the types of courses offered, more concentration on the basic studies, more school work for Johnny and Mary, and higher pay for teachers.

"My own view," Dr. Eisenhower said, "is that our secondary schools, in response to public pressures, have tended to proliferate themselves into decreased quality, if not mediocrity, on the average."

Red Cross Plans Action

PLANS for the 1958 Red Cross Campaign for Members and Funds which opens in March, a review of the blood donor program, and coordination of Red Cross and Civil Defense disaster services were topics at last night's meeting of the board of directors and executive board of the Monroe County Chapter.

Harold Ingraham, chairman of the 1958 Fund Campaign, outlined plans to date for what he called "A big, but not impossible, job."

Roy Mikels announced that between July 1, 1956 and July 1, 1957, the chapter had collected 1,152 pints of blood, of which 730 were collected at Tobyhanna Signal Depot.

Between July 1, 1957 and Jan. 1, 1958, the collection came to 656 pints with 416 contributed by the depot. That total was raised in January when in two days of giving blood the depot personnel gave 550 pints.

Disaster Duties
J. L. Cohen, Red Cross disaster chairman, reported on a meeting with Marshall Reese, new director of Civil Defense, in which disaster duties were analyzed to prevent duplication of services.

In this connection, a meeting of disaster nurses from both Red Cross and Civil Defense will be held on Feb. 20 when Red Cross Field Director, Miss Gertrude Landmesser, will consult with local nurses on possibilities of offering disaster training here.

George Ockershausen was named chairman of First Aid and Water Safety for the local chapter. Mrs. H. J. Pine, Jr., former chairman is now serving as chairman of motor corps. William Fisher was named chapter chairman of finance.

The reports of the various chairmen, showed a busy month in January on both the home service and volunteer service front.

Home service was given to 21 cases of which 18 were active service men, three were veterans and one civilian. On their behalf 19 telegrams and 20 long distance telephone calls were made.

Food orders or clothing were granted to 12 families under the disaster service and 11 meal tickets were issued. There were 58 requests not counted as cases and 117 office interviews during January. Mrs. Clifford Heller reported.

The volunteers were also busy. Mrs. Walter Dreher reported with 112 volunteers giving 1,140 hours of service. The two-day blood bank at Tobyhanna required the service of 70 volunteers for 556 hours and the Gray Lady Service at the hospital 44 volunteers for 501 hours. Motor service also had a busy month with 16 trips totaling 528 miles.

Serving in addition to motor service and gray ladies were canteen service, first aid and water safety, home nursing, nurses aides, registered nurses and doctors as well as administrative aides.

95,000 Killed In Accidents Last Year

CHICAGO, Feb. 6 (AP)—Killed—95,000. Injured—9½ million. The cost—$11,500,000,000.

That was the toll caused by accidents in the United States in 1957—the lowest such death rate in the history of accidents records.

The National Safety Council, which released the figures today, said deaths virtually remained unchanged from the 1956 toll of 97,780.

But the increase in population during the year cut the 1957 accident death rate to the all-time low of 55.8 per 100,000 population. The 1956 rate was 56.7 and the previous record low was 55.9 in 1954.

Number One
Motor vehicle accidents retained their long-hold role as the November one killer, accounting for 38,500 deaths. This, however, was a 3 per cent drop from the 1956 traffic toll of 39,628.

Home accidents killed 27,500, a 2 per cent drop from 1956 while accidents at work took 14,200 lives, a 1 per cent decline from the previous year.

The only category to show an increase was public deaths such as catastrophes, fire fatalities and railroad and plane accidents. These deaths totaled 18,000 last year, a 13 per cent jump from the 1956 toll of 16,000.

The 1957 overall accident death rate was 23 per cent under the 1941 rate.

Work Should Be Rushed

Definite assurance that dirt would fly on the Keystone Shortway construction project by the end of this year has come from both state and federal road officials.

While this is good news to those people who feared that work would be delayed into 1959 or later, the word was received rather coolly by Shortway officials who had been pressing for a May 30 starting date.

Chief Engineer Robert A. Farley of the State Highways Department said every effort would be exerted to begin construction on the 291-mile Stroudsburg-to-Sharon route during the 46-week crash program outlined by Gov. George M. Leader last week.

Mr. Leader is proposing a 40 per cent speed-up in public works which had been planned for the next several years. The program calls for compressing five years of construction plans into 46 weeks starting in March.

The bulk of the $200,000,000 cost is expected to come from the federal government in the form of 90 per cent aid on federal interstate projects. The Shortway falls into that category.

The Governor's program seeks to combat growing unemployment in Pennsylvania. Besides the Shortway, another major project would be construction of the Anthracite Expressway running from the New York State line north of Scranton to the Maryland line west of Chambersburg.

Both the Shortway and the Expressway, as now planned, will run through areas where the unemployment problem is an imposing one.

Mr. Farley's statement that construction of the Shortway would start this year was echoed by John L. Stinson, division engineer for the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads. It is planned to construct the four-lane, limited-access freeway in sections under separate contracts.

Since it will take 10 years to complete the work, by the most conservative official estimate, any delay in the start of construction should be made up later on through a speed-up in the project schedule. The Shortway will have a terrific impact on the economy of the entire state and should be rushed to completion on a high priority basis.

The Bends

George Sokolsky Says...

West German Miracle

The so-called West German miracle is a product of hard work and national will and that, as much as any other factor, has altered the face of post-war Europe. It has established the possibility of an economic if not altogether a political union of Western Europe.

The weakness of Western Europe, since World War I, has been an inability of most of the countries that compose it, to recognize that in the 20th Century it would grow increasingly difficult for empires to live on the produce of the weak and backward nations. The basic error of Western Europe was that it fought World War I at all.

The destruction of the Kaiser's Germany and the Austro-Hungarian Empire; the stimulation of nationalistic discontent among Asian and African peoples; the impact of the United States upon European life; the Bolshevik Revolution; and the emergence of Japan as an equal of the West in the councils of nations—these and the elimination of the doctrine of the freedom of the seas by emergence of the submarine and the airplane as weapons of war, inevitably led to the ultimate destruction of the British, French and Dutch empires.

Therefore, Western Europe was left without real political power and economic stability. Germany, which for a thousand years, in one political form or another, had kept the Slav out of Europe, no longer was capable of maintaining any political force until Hitler emerged with the one possible doctrine that could unite a broken people, namely, the Nietzschean concept of the Superman and Houston Stewart Chamberlain's doctrine of the superiority of the Nordic races. Hitler succeeded after all other German wise men had failed.

He re-established Germany as a strong nation, strong enough to hold the entire world at bay for six years on multiple fronts. Whether Hitler was mad or sane, right or wrong, decent or obscene no longer matters, for he is dead, burned on a pyre of his own making. What does matter and what is so frightening is that his strategy and tactics are now being used by Nasser in the Arab world.

Robert S. Allen Reports...

Stassen Ouster Looms

Washington, Feb. 6.—There is a remarkable story behind those widely-published reports that Harold Stassen is on the verge of getting the gate as disarmament adviser.

None other than Sherman Adams was the direct source of those reports. THE Assistant to the President, as Adams is officially listed on the White House rolls, personally dispensed this information to a group of hand-picked correspondents at an unusual meeting.

It was arranged by a Washington publisher for a wholly different purpose. The publisher's intent was to enable Adams to explain to the newsmen how and why he made that speech, at a Republican rally in Minneapolis, vigorously assailing the Democrats on the national defense issue. That same night, at another GOP gathering in Chicago, President Eisenhower urged this urgent problem be kept out of partisan politics.

This head-on contradiction between the President and his chief White House assistant aroused a storm of controversy.

In the midst of it, the Washington publisher, long a personal friend of Adams, phoned him and frankly told him he had made a mistake; that he should not have made that kind of address. To the publisher's surprise, Adams ruefully agreed with him.

In the ensuing discussion, the publisher proposed inviting a selected group of correspondents to hear Adams' explanation of how his speech came about. He readily accepted this suggestion.

Adams' Account.—His explosive attack on the Democrats, Adams told the newsmen, was due to insistent demands for that from numerous Republican members of Congress. For weeks, the GOP lawmakers had barraged him with phone calls and other messages urging that a prominent Administration spokesman wade into the Democrats on the defense issue. At the time, Adams felt there was good grounds for their clamor.

After thinking the matter over, Adams decided to do this counter-blasting himself in the Minneapolis speech. "I realize now that was a mistake," he told the correspondents. "It was one of those mistakes that are bound to occur in my kind of a job over a period of years. They shouldn't happen, but somehow they do. None of us are perfect. If I had to do it over, I would most definitely not deliver that kind of a speech."

One newsmen asked if Adams knew the contents of the President's speech. Adams nodded in the affirmative, but said nothing to amplify that.

After a pause, the reporter continued, "Did the President know what you were going to say?"

"No, he did not," replied Adams. "I did not show him my address, or discuss it with him."

No explanation for that was volunteered by Adams, and none was asked of him. His widely-published tip about Stassen came later during a discussion of foreign affairs.

The correspondents questioned Adams particularly about the prospects of a summit conference. He was non-committal on that. Mention was made that Stassen reportedly favors such a parley with the Soviet. Adams made no direct answer to that.

"You will be interested to know," he said instead, "that Stassen is leaving soon. He is resigning in a few days."

The newsmen sought more details from Adams, but without success. He declined to comment on whether Stassen's departure would be voluntary or requested. Similarly, Adams would say nothing about the possibility of a successor to Stassen.

These questions have popped in and out of my empty head for many days. But, they don't bother me any more. I was fortunate enough on Wednesday to sit down with a group of men and talk with Marshall Reese, president of the newly formed Monroe County Civil Defense Council.

Any doubts I had about the future have been erased. Marshall didn't tell us that his organization could do super-human duties. He didn't say that it was saved because Civil Defense was on the job.

But, he did dispel a lot of concern by the quiet manner in which he went about planning the smallest detail in case of disaster of any type. He didn't leave a stone unturned and he didn't turn down a single suggestion or thought on the subject. He was there to learn what could be done and to inform those present just how far Civil Defense was prepared to go in any direction.

As pointed out above, Reese didn't make any outlandish promises, but rather calmly pointed out that his new organization will utilize the old Civil Defense setup in Monroe County and add many touches that can result in nothing but improvement.

Marshall is awaiting official word of his appointment as chief of the local Civil Defense setup. The appointment is on the desk of Gov. George Leader right now and will probably become official within a week.

County authorities have handled their portion of the Reese appointment and this writer, among all the other residents of Monroe County, are mighty pleased with the result.

I have known Marshall for many years and his work, regardless of the position which he filled at the time, has always been of the highest caliber. He knows every inch of Barrett Township and he's a mighty tough guy to lose in any portion of Monroe County.

From the very first it was my opinion that Reese's selection was the right choice, but after Wednesday's confab, I'm certain the appointment was correct.

Now it's up to us to lend a helping hand.

He was there to learn what could be done and to inform those present just how far Civil Defense was prepared to go in any direction.

As pointed out above, Reese didn't make any outlandish promises, but rather calmly pointed out that his new organization will utilize the old Civil Defense setup in Monroe County and add many touches that can result in nothing but improvement.

Marshall is awaiting official word of his appointment as chief of the local Civil Defense setup. The appointment is on the desk of Gov. George Leader right now and will probably become official within a week.

County authorities have handled their portion of the Reese appointment and this writer, among all the other residents of Monroe County, are mighty pleased with the result.

I have known Marshall for many years and his work, regardless of the position which he filled at the time, has always been of the highest caliber. He knows every inch of Barrett Township and he's a mighty tough guy to lose in any portion of Monroe County.

From the very first it was my opinion that Reese's selection was the right choice, but after Wednesday's confab, I'm certain the appointment was correct.

Now it's up to us to lend a helping hand.

ing a discussion of foreign affairs.

The correspondents questioned Adams particularly about the prospects of a summit conference. He was non-committal on that. Mention was made that Stassen reportedly favors such a parley with the Soviet. Adams made no direct answer to that.

"You will be interested to know," he said instead, "that Stassen is leaving soon. He is resigning in a few days."

The newsmen sought more details from Adams, but without success. He declined to comment on whether Stassen's departure would be voluntary or requested. Similarly, Adams would say nothing about the possibility of a successor to Stassen.

These questions have popped in and out of my empty head for many days. But, they don't bother me any more. I was fortunate enough on Wednesday to sit down with a group of men and talk with Marshall Reese, president of the newly formed Monroe County Civil Defense Council.

Any doubts I had about the future have been erased. Marshall didn't tell us that his organization could do super-human duties. He didn't say that it was saved because Civil Defense was on the job.

But, he did dispel a lot of concern by the quiet manner in which he went about planning the smallest detail in case of disaster of any type. He didn't leave a stone unturned and he didn't turn down a single suggestion or thought on the subject. He was there to learn what could be done and to inform those present just how far Civil Defense was prepared to go in any direction.

President Of Council At Work

by Jim Riley

Satellites, missiles, rockets and long range weapons of all types leads one to wonder about the future of Civil Defense.

Questions run through one's mind after reading about total destruction and the probable results of modern warfare.

These questions have popped in and out of my empty head for many days. But, they don't bother me any more. I was fortunate enough on Wednesday to sit down with a group of men and talk with Marshall Reese, president of the newly formed Monroe County Civil Defense Council.

Opinions Of Other Editors

New Set Of Brakes

Congressional economists, led by Senator Byrd, keep a limit on the Federal debt as the most effective brake they have on spending. An Administration request for a five-billion-dollar increase in that limit is now under close examination.

Meanwhile another, and perhaps far more effective, "brake" is at hand in form of House resolution 8002, which takes care of one of the major reforms proposed by the second Hoover Commission.

Under the present system Congress authorizes appropriations for long-range projects, extending over a period of years. Carryovers of this type now amount to 70 billion dollars and Congress has little control, or even knowledge, of how or when the money is to be spent.

The proposed law would subject these expenditures to annual review and justification with the possibility that some of them might be eliminated, reduced or postponed because of changed conditions or the more pressing need to use the money elsewhere.

Like most fiscal legislation, this measure lacks drama. Its ramifications are hard for the laymen to understand. But in potential savings it probably ranks near the top among all the Hoover Commission suggestions.

It is now ready for action on the floor of the House. It should be called up promptly and passed.

The Pennsylvania Story

Jumping The Gun

By Mason Denison Harrisburg—Reporter's Notebook:

Flustered Governor—Continuation reigned supreme in the gubernatorial hatbox the other day.

The occasion: a jump-to-conclusion story by a western Pennsylvania newspaper declaring that the Governor had declared "officially" his intention to run for the U. S. Senate.

The newspaper, understandably perhaps, picked up the lead during a political hoedown in the area attended by Leader when Democratic old pol Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh verbally bussed the Governor and attached his senatorial blessing.

"Oh no," groaned a gubernatorial aide here in Harrisburg when informed of the turn of events. "A hasty reiteration of his 'intention' was forthwith hustled by the Governor to Capitol Hill."

Note: when the Governor does formally announce his candidacy it will not be an off-by-chance affair but will be properly heralded on Capitol Hill as the initial point of impact.

Special Session-itis—The clamor is growing for a special session of the Legislature this year—but the "front office" is maintaining a discreet silence.

The reason is understandable. . . . Anti-administration Republicans already have accused Democratic Governor Leader of plotting such a special session call as a campaign sounding board. . . . If there is to be a special session, the administration wants the pressure to come from the outside.

Close-to-the-administration labor leaders are the latest to sound the call pointing to a need for legislative action to beef up Pennsylvania's sagging economy and bore into the growing unemployment problem.

Telescope Reaction—When Governor Leader one week ago today proposed his now controversial program for telescoping into 46 weeks some $200 million worth of public building projects—originally slated to cover a period of several years—as a temporary but speedy employment move for the Keystone State, it was half-heartedly hoped that it might spark some bipartisan interest in the GOP anti-administration breast.

Hopefully gubernatorial aides watched for comment from Republican stalwarts—but their hopes were soon dashed. . . . Comments from the GOP side generally were caustic, derogatory and highly pooh-poohish. . . . Fellow Democrats and labor leaders lined up behind the proposal. . . . Editorial support throughout the state was more than had been expected. . . . Commented George Leader as he drove ahead with the program: "There is no place for politics in a program that affects the lives, the security, the hopes of many thousands of our citizens who want only the chance to help themselves."

"No-Leads Bradley"—One of the most tight-lipped, iron-fisted departments on Capitol Hill these days is the crutch-and well-sand-bagged Department of Property and Supplies—the taxpayers' multi-million-dollar spending agency where censorship has become an everyday byword.

Long a pain in the typewriter to Capitol Hill newsmen has been the come-through-me-only order issued by Secretary of Property and Supplies Andrew S. Bradley when newsmen query subdivisions of the department—formally—for information. . . . It doesn't stop veteran newsmen however, who are simply forced to rely on established tipsters within the department to get what they should normally get through official channels. . . . On a simple contract query the other day this reporter, beating a deadline, went up the official route—only to find Bradley unavailable. . . . An unofficial informant provided our answer in the end.

Dorothy May

Dorothy May Selected For DAR Award

MISS DOROTHY E. May has been chosen winner of the DAR Good Citizenship award at East Stroudsburg Area High School.

Miss May is the daughter of Dr. Jonas T. May, Star Route, East Stroudsburg. She was chosen for the honor by her classmates.

Active in School
In addition to being a member of National Honor Society, Dorothy has been active in the Junior Historical Society, the literary staff of the yearbook, the Monroe County Mathematics Tournament, intramural sports and the senior play cast.

She was recently named "Girl of the Month" by the East Stroudsburg Exchange Club. She hopes to enroll in the pre-med course in college following graduation.

Three Eagles Depart For Atlantic City

THREE members of Stroudsburg Aerie 1106, Fraternal Order of Eagles, left yesterday for Atlantic City, N. J., to attend an eastern states conference.

They are Ernest Ridgeway, a state vice president, and Frank Forrie, president, and Les Voss, secretary, of the local lodge.

60th Anniversary
The conference is marking the 60th anniversary of the founding of the organization and will be highlighted by anniversary classes of members.

The conference will conclude with a grand ball Saturday at which a "Miss Eagle," sponsored by the Atlantic City aerie will be crowned.

Contract Set For Highway

A CONTRACT for construction of two and one-half miles of Legislative Route 45051 from its intersection with Route 45010 south to the Monroe-Northampton County line was awarded to John H. Swager, Inc., Lancaster, yesterday by the State Highways Department.

The project, which also calls for construction of two concrete bridges, was listed at $281,148.

Religious Film To Be Shown

"THE MIRACLE of Marcelino," one of the most widely-praised films of the past decade, will be seen Monday and Tuesday nights at The Sherman Theatre in Stroudsburg.

Its appearance here is sponsored by Father Butler Council, Knights of Columbus. Tickets are on sale from Knights of Columbus members or in the lobby of the theatre.

Spokesmen for the Council last night noted that "Marcelino" has been given critical praise by nearly every major American newspaper and magazine which reviewed it.

Comments
Among the critical comments cited by the sponsoring organization are the following:

Bosley Crowther, writing in The New York Times: "Admirers of the beautifully pictorial should find it a photographic gem; those sensitive to poetic image-making should be touched by its candid poignancy. It is a sweet and moving thing."

Herman Kupperfer, New York Herald Tribune: "An imaginative charm that touches both laughter and tears. What makes 'Marcelino' so enchanting a film is its tender, laughter-flecked portrayal."

Archer Winsten, The New York Post: "Pablito Calvo (who plays Marcelino) is a miracle in his own right. . . . There are performances of a quality so fine that they never seem to be acted."

The Sign Magazine: "Once in a moviegoing lifetime you will find a picture as reverent, imaginative and moving as Marcelino. Framed in simple, yet beautiful, scenes, this story of a boy's faith transcends its physical boundaries to become a very special and tremendously affecting picture. 'Marcelino' is The Sign's selection as the best motion picture produced this year."

Services At Temple Israel
REGULAR Sabbath Services will be held at Temple Israel at 8 p.m. today. Services will be conducted by Rabbi Joshua Soden.

The sermon will be dedicated to the Hebrew Arbor Day which was celebrated on Wednesday, Feb. 5 and will be called "A Time To Plant."

Regular services will be held on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of the coming week at 7:30 p.m.

First Degree To Be Conferred

THE FIRST Degree of the Knights of Columbus will be conferred by the Degree Team of the Father Butler Council, on Sunday afternoon, at 2 p.m., in St. Luke's auditorium, Stroudsburg.

The membership committee, under the direction of Charles Dellaria, requests that all members make a special effort to be present.

Safety To Be Feature Of Boy Scout Week

THE 4,700,000 boys and leaders of the Boy Scouts of America will launch a year-long National Safety Good Turn during Boy Scout Week, today through Feb. 13.

The Scouts' national service project was suggested by President Dwight D. Eisenhower, honorary president of the Boy Scouts.

In a White House message, President Eisenhower told the Scouts:

"In our land each individual is of inestimable worth, yet in no other land do accidents cause a more terrible loss of human life and limb. This fact cannot be passively accepted. We must seek new ways to save the basic resources of our Nation: its people."

"Encouraged by the splendid results of your Conservation Good Turn four years ago, I now urge you to adopt Safety as your service project for 1958. Through the concerted action of your members, and in cooperation with other organizations, you can alert the public to the urgent need for reducing the tragic toll of accidents."

"This is an opportunity for service to your country in the highest tradition of the Boy Scouts of America."

The Scouts' National Safety Good Turn is being coordinated nationally and locally with other safety programs and campaigns.

National safety organizations have advised and assisted Scout leaders in developing plans and projects.

During March, April and May, the projects will involve traffic safety. Outdoor safety projects will keep Scouts busy in June, July and August. Home safety will be featured in September, October and November.

Next October, the Boy Scouts will distribute to approximately 35,000,000 homes a civil defense booklet on family preparedness for emergencies.

Investment Demand Brings Gains To Selected Issues On Stock Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (AP)—Investment demand asserted itself late today bringing gains to selected issues but the stock market as a whole closed slightly lower.

Leading issues showed gains or losses running generally from fractions to a point or so. A number of stocks gave some very good performances on the upside. Late in the day there was a definite upturn on brisker dealings. However, the market statistics still pointed lower.

Most Active
The 15 most active stocks produced an almost even split of 7 gainers to 6 losers with 2 unchanged.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 30 cents to $163.90 with the industrials down 60 cents, the rails down 30 cents and the utilities unchanged.

In a narrow market of 1,120 issues traded, 488 declined and 375 advanced. New highs for 1957-58 totaled 25. The one new low was Sun Oil.

Volume totaled 2,210,000 shares compared with 2,400,000 yesterday.

For the seventh straight day Royal Dutch topped the most active list. Rights to its big new stock issue expire Monday. It was off 1/4 at 40 on 92,700 shares.

Second
Second was Phillips Petroleum, off 1/4 at 39 on 71,785 shares. Third was Ex-Cell-O, up 1/4 at 31 1/2 on 48,800.

Next came Standard Oil (New Jersey), off 1/4 at 50, and American Viscose, up 1/4 at 29 1/2.

Lukens gyrated on news of its substantial earnings increase in 1957 over 1956. Some Wall Street sources expected even higher earnings. The stock lost 1/4, dropped also moved widely to the minus side but closed with a net loss of only 1/4. Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad halved its dividend and dropped 1/4.

Among losers were Anaconda, Chrysler 3/4, Texas Co. 1/4 and Johns-Manville 3/4. Martin Co., General Dynamics and United Aircraft were higher.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregular on volume of 60,000 shares compared with 600,000 yesterday. Corporate bonds declined in slack turnover. U.S. Government bonds rose sharply in active trading.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Not only did I not get any "hemmer shawner odder bouch flicker" but not even a "tsai slicka" at the Ground Hog dinner. Moreover, I'm not even sure what I missed. The first thing is something about a table cloth and the last is a "toothpick," and what comes in between you'll have to ask Dukder lise Boordt, who was slated to give a "dumb schpiel" at the dinner.

But whatever I missed, I wouldn't have missed the sight of that many men all in one place for anything. It's a good thing the Broadheads firehall is a sturdy building. Some 275 husky, hungry Dutchmen all in one place is enough to make any floor sag.

What it would do after they'd consumed all that food I saw in the kitchen I hate to think. The only women there were the ones in the kitchen and when I left they were bracing themselves for the first service. "Those men look hungrier than ever this year," one of the women observed fearfully. "We're never going to get them filled up!"

I'll bet they did, though. But I can sympathize with their trepidation. The sheer bulk of that many hungry men is sort of awe-inspiring like the Grand Canyon yawning at your feet or Niagara Falls ready to thunder down on your head.

It's a good thing I had my coat on or I'd have been drafted for helping, sure as anything. At that it might have been fun—with an interpreter, that is. I fortunately found an interpreter for part of the menu. "Uf Shioes Mints," she said meant "to belch mints," which, I suppose, is a graphic, if hardly elegant description of after-dinner mints.

Though with the brass band playing and the Pennsylvania Dutch talk rumbling, nobody would have heard it anyway.

Women Prepare Vegetable Casseroles

Dingmans Ferry — "New Ways to Prepare Vegetables" was the topic of discussion at the last meeting of the Dingmans Ferry Home Economics Group. The ladies met at the home of Mrs. Harry Snyder and Miss Roslyn Lindauer at 1 p.m., Jan. 28, and enjoyed a lunch of assorted vegetable casseroles and salads made by several of the group. During and after the meal, recipes and methods of preparing these and other dishes were discussed and recipe leaflets were distributed by Miss Hilda Haskell, Pike County Extension Home Economist.

In addition to the fourteen regular members present, Mrs. Joseph Staley, wife of the new Pike County Agricultural Agent was a guest.

The next meeting of the Dingmans Ferry Home Economics Group will be held on February 11 at the home of Mrs. Theodore Weber. At that time Miss Haskell will show slides on "Decorative Accessories." These meetings are open to any interested woman in Dingmans Ferry and vicinity and transportation may be arranged by calling Mrs. Carl Schneider, Dingmans Ferry 8173, Mrs. G. E. Irvine, 8971, or any of the members.

MR. AND MRS. UNG PYO KOH, of Korea, with their attendants following their marriage at the Mount Pocono Methodist Church on Saturday. Miss Wanda Bisbing, left, was maid of honor. Kirho Bai, also of Korea, right, was best man.

Church 'Family' Serves At Wedding Of Koreans Here

Mount Pocono — The congregation of the Mount Pocono Methodist Church served in the stead of family for a young Korean couple married far from home on Saturday at 2 p.m. at the church.

Miss Jeung Hi Pak of Pusan, Korea, and Ung Pyo Koh, of Seoul, Korea and Wilkes College, Wilkes-Barre were married by Rev. James F. Mort, pastor of the Mount Pocono Methodist Church.

Miss Wanda Bisbing of Mount Pocono was maid of honor and Kirho Bai, of Seoul, Korea, and Lafayette College, Easton served as best man.

The wedding vows were spoken in Korean and Soochal Chung of Seoul, Korea, and Wilkes College sang a solo in Korean and English using "Home Sweet Home," a traditional Korean Christian wedding song. Rev. James Mort sang the wedding hymn, "O Perfect Love." The church organist, Mrs. Franklin Miller was accompanist and played traditional wedding music before and during the ceremony.

The young couple have been members of the choir of the Mount Pocono Methodist Church for the past two summers. The women of the church, with Mrs. L. C. Ingersoll and Mrs. Earl Dennis as co-chairmen, prepared and served at the reception in the church social rooms following the ceremony. The bridal couple greeted their guests and opened their gifts.

The bride attended Ewha University in Seoul and was employed in the U. S. Chaplains' Office of the Air Force before coming to this country to study. She was graduated from Marywood College, Scranton, and has studied in the Graduate School of American University, Washington, D. C.

The bridegroom attended the University of Japan and taught English in Korean Military College and Sukmon School in Seoul. During the war, he was a captain in the Korean Army and served as liaison officer between the Korean and American Armies. He is now studying economics at Wilkes College.

The Wyckoff Shopper

The Friendly Store

Mrs. Nelson Frantz was one of the window shoppers in front of our store on a recent brisk morning. Together we admired the beautiful hats, bright in their shades of apricot and peach and billowing with crisp veils and pert posies. "It looks like Spring," Mrs. Frantz smiled as she snuggled deeper into the collar of her coat, "but it certainly doesn't feel that way."

It DOESN'T feel like Spring . . . and it isn't Spring. But isn't it wonderful that the new colors create that happy, heart-warming illusion? I think so . . . and believe me, I for one am literally standing tiptoe with arms outstretched for that just-around-the-corner season. I'm yearning for the first robin . . . the first crocus . . . the first April shower. And you don't fool me one bit . . . you're yearning right along with me! Why else would you be stopping to exclaim over the pretty violet sprinkled handkerchiefs and clusters of violets so enticingly arranged on an accessories table in our center aisle? Why else would you be haunting the cosmetic department and whiffing such "sky-blue-pink with green grass trimming" fragrances as Matchabelli's "Lilacs in the Snow"? Why else would you be peering critically into our beauty salon mirrors and asking for a new hair style . . . or color . . . or wanting to know what's new in nail polish? And let me tell you another thing . . . if you feel dreadfully old, shopworn and passed-by at this particular moment, think nothing of it. There's nothing at all wrong with you that a new lipstick in a "different" shade . . . a pretty pique collar shot with a "dashing red ribbon bow . . . or a spit-curl over your forehead won't cure in two seconds flat. The feeling of being as old as Methuselah, and twice as shaggy, is just the proof you need that Winter's passing out of the picture. Tomorrow you and the soggy winter will be as up and zooming as The Explorer or some dazzling new satellite.

Edna Brockman, busy on our Travel Bureau's Springtime Tour of Europe, being sponsored by the Stroudsburg Woman's Club, asks me to remind you that the deadline for reservations is Saturday, February 15th. Seven persons have already made their final arrangements, and there are any number of others who are interested. Certainly a 750.00 expenditure is a most reasonable one for such a complete, all-expense tour.

If you wish you felt a little more of the old ginger in your veins along about now, try a delicious new Keiller candy—Ginger Bon Bon, selling at 79c a pound. This is the most recent addition to the ever-popular Keiller line of hard candies, and each piece has the customary individual wrapping. Personally, I am not fond of ginger—it is usually far too bity for my taste. But this candy is just right. Tangy in a subtle way . . . a peppy zesty taste for Spring.

Polio Fund Enriched By $739.75

BANGOR — Total receipts of $739.75 to date in the local March of Dimes was reported during a meeting of the committee held Wednesday night in the Jacksonian Hall.

Included in a total of $325.20 received at last night's meeting was an amount of $100.40 which was collected at the Washington Township School at Meyers Crossing. The remainder was the result of receipts through envelopes and cards.

Committee Records

According to committee records the present total collected is still about $900 short of last year's collections. However, the committee has hopes that by the next meeting to be held on February 18 a substantial amount may be realized in the drive to go over last year's total collections.

Attending Wednesday's meeting were Edward Long, Chairman, who was in charge; Arthur Cramer, co-chairman; Charles Steinmetz, treasurer; Mrs. Annie Hughes, Mrs. Jennie Verona, Mrs. Laura Wolfe and Glenn Grigg.

Italy Backs Pro-West Plan

ROME, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Chamber of Deputies today endorsed Italy's pro-Western foreign policy and rejected a Communist move to block the installation of U. S. missile bases in Italy.

Only the Communists and the pro-Communist Socialists of Pietro Nenni backed a motion calling for a change in Italian policies to bring them into line with Soviet views.

HONORING the creation of its world famous ginger ale, Canada Dry is launching a Golden Anniversary Celebration in February with a major promotion featuring a generous refund offer to consumers.

It was early in the century that J. J. McLaughlin, a gold medal chemist of Toronto, marketed the first pale dry ginger ale the world has even known.

"It may sound immodest now, but it is a fact that this product had a revolutionary effect on consumer drinking habits," said Carl Weber, owner of the Canada Bottling Co. of Lehigh Valley. "For our Golden Anniversary Celebration, we are toasting all the consumers who brought us success by offering them drinks on the house."

Promotion

During the four-week promotion, all family-size Canada Dry Ginger Ale will be capped with special gold crowns. Consumers are invited to mail three gold crowns to Canada Dry for a 30-cent refund.

"This gives them more than a full bottle free," said Weber, "as our way of saying Thanks, America."

Summing up, Weber said: "We've staged many promotions before, but a Golden Anniversary comes only once in our lifetime. We're pulling out all the stops on this one. The nice part of it is that everyone benefits—dealers, consumers, and Canada Dry."

Historically, Canada Dry built its reputation on McLaughlin's creation of "The Champagne of Ginger Ales," whose formula is a closely guarded secret.

For a quarter-century this was the only product under the Canada Dry name. Shortly before Repeal, the company introduced its second product, Club Soda. Since then, others were added in more rapid succession.

Today, Canada Dry occupies a unique position as the only beverage company offering a complete line of nationally distributed beverage products under a single trademark.

SHOOTING SHOEMAKER

MOVE OVER Wyatt Earp, Matt Dillon and any other cowpoke who thinks he's great shakes with a gun. Nick Nicastro, a shoemaker from Mar Vista, Calif., is staking his claim to the title of "fastest gun draw in the world." Nick says he can draw consistently at one-tenth of a second and has done the trick in nine-hundredths of a second several times. Nick practices an average of two hours a day at home and sometimes in his shoe shop. Three nights a week, Nick and his act are on the road, performing for civic and youth groups. Who's the fastest next to Nick? His son, Jimmy, 13, "who'll be better than me in a few years." Nick hopes to get into the movies, but an agent said he looks the part of a gangster.

Nick goes through his quick draw, which he practices every chance he gets.

Reading Highlights Stroud Union Teachers Institute Program

Music Part Of Special Workshop

ON THE STROUD Union teachers institute program it was billed as a "reading demonstration"—but it started with a phonograph playing "Embraceable You" and part of "An American in Paris."

Standing in front of the half-square of students in the new music room at the high school, Miss Betsy Willey, Macmillan Co. consultant, started a discussion of jazz. What was it? One of the students said it was "the rock and roll" of its day. Miss Willey smiled.

How do you suppose you'd train to be a jazz composer? she asked. You'd have to feel it first, a student said. You might have been trained on an instrument. You'd have to learn how to compose music.

People Scowling

Would you, the teacher asked. I see some people scowling. Do you agree? Some of the students weren't sure. Then Miss Willey turned the conversation more and more toward "composing" jazz music—where did it come from? (The South, a voice said). What kind of man wrote jazz?

Then, rather abruptly, she asked: What would be a measure of a good biography? (after students had identified the word as being "the story of a man's life"). It should have "excitement," it shouldn't have "mile-long words in it" (to which Miss Willey replied: "Those mile-long words can be murder can't they?") and it should be "well-written."

The teacher mentioned, for the first time, the name of the story the students were to read—"Music Hath Charms." The author was Bennett Cerf (the students remembered him from "What's My Line" on TV it developed). Then the students read the first paragraph of Cerf's story about George Gershwin. When they were all finished the consultant asked them to describe what it was like in the first paragraph. Comments:

There was a dull party going on in Bucks County and no one seemed to be having fun. It was hot. It was in June. No—July. Yeah, that's right, July. There wasn't any moon. It was pitch-black. Then a newscast came over the radio. It broke things up.

Why? It said Gershwin was dead. What was shocking about that—aside from the fact that all the people at the party knew him very well? He was always complaining about his health. And nobody believed him. They laughed at him. Not laughed exactly. What did they do? (A boy looked at the book). They "joshed." What does that mean? They made fun of him.

Whole Story

The students were directed to read the whole story (210 words). Miss Willey talked with the teachers assembled in the room, in a low voice as the students were reading. One boy finished far ahead of the others. Miss Willey walked across, handed him the pasteboard album cover with its Gershwin biographical notes. He went on reading. Then they were all finished. What was Mr. Cerf's purpose in writing the story? she asked. I think he wanted to make a memorial to Gershwin.

The questions and answers came easily, sometimes crowding one another a little: What was Cerf's attitude toward Gershwin? I think he had a case of hero worship; it was so bad it was kinda pathetic. What characteristic did you find in Gershwin? He was conceited. He took it for granted everyone wanted to hear nothing but his music.

What was your opinion of the story? It's the kind I don't like to read, a boy said. I don't like the author putting himself in, another said. It doesn't seem natural; if he was so conceited, someone should have told him off, a girl said. I think he had something to be conceited about; he earned his fame, a boy said.

Then the teacher returned to the theme of composing music. Did you find out in the story whether you have to know how to write music before you can compose? The students said they had not. All right, said Miss Willey, there's something you can find out on your own—ask your music instructor later or read until you find out.

Their part of the demonstration over the students filed out of the room. There was a brief summation. It had taken exactly 60 minutes to resolve the major questions of the "lesson"—and leave an unanswered question hanging in the air for an inquiring mind to resolve, someday.

Half Of Road Funds Spent

Educator Offers Advice For Reading

A FAMED education consultant yesterday morning urged Stroud Union District teachers to adopt a "realistic reading program" for all children from kindergarten through grade 12.

To do that, Dr. Roma Gans, Columbia University Teachers College, said, "learn new methods, find the materials you need from outside the classroom and remember that teaching reading to children... is a never-ending process."

Dr. Gans, a precise woman with a tongue tinged with humor, stated a major premise of her address at the opening session of the teachers' institute when she said: "A roomful of children... is a terrific sociological project."

"Grade Levels" She criticized the theory of "grade levels" for children in reading, saying, at one point, that it may some day be possible to "do away with promotions... but we still have a series of hangovers from the days when we didn't see the dignity of the child."

"Yet how dare we talk about bringing human beings up to grade level?" she asked. "You can buy gravel that way, or sand. But human beings can't be talked about in those terms."

One flaw in the teaching of any subject, she said, is the apathy of those doing the teaching. "Teachers should be excited about something," she said. "I remember one of the best teachers I ever had. She was always saying: 'I read something last night that was beautiful and I must share it with you.'"

"But there are some youngsters who are amazed when they find out their teachers really read," Dr. Gans said.

"Teaching boys to read is harder than teaching girls—because boys think it's 'sissy' to read," she went on. "There are boys in every class who are like that. They wouldn't be caught dead getting A's."

The teacher's job, she said, is to find stimulating material which will arouse the interest of the boy who resists reading. Examples: The teacher who brought Popular Mechanics and Popular Science magazines into his boys' class, got the students started reading and writing about things they liked: A New York teacher, working with a "difficult" class who "taught" the class in science museums, on field trips, finding the subjects which interested his students.

Lofty Aim "The lofty aim of education and of reading should be the growth of the youngsters—not to beat the norm of the tests," she said.

Dr. Gans was introduced by Earl F. Groner, superintendent of Stroud Union Schools. Members of the institute committee, working with Roger A. Dunning, elementary supervisor, were: Miss Anna Stem, Alfred Munson, Samuel O. Wells III, John Senigle (elementary chairman), Mrs. Jack Raymond, Mrs. Mahlon Serfass, Mrs. Adeline Weidman, Mrs. Walter Marshall, and Thomas Manley.

The institute continues this morning with workshop sessions. A program titled "This Atomic World" will be given this afternoon from 1:30 to 3:30. High school students are invited to attend that portion of the program.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

FOR FRIDAY, FEB. 7, 1958

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Your Mars position now stresses gentleness and no irritability. We all have problems of "not" days, so watch that you don't irritate others. A big smile and understanding will pay rewards.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Again you are favored by Venus, the Moon and Uranus. A generous, productive period if you hold emotions under control and go calmly, efficiently, about your tasks.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Be patient with matters that tax the brain, make you work hard mentally. The easier and calmer you manage and approach those with whom you deal or work, the quicker and better will be your returns.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Be unique, different in style and method of handling things, and see if you don't enhance your work's whole contour, make it more attractive to buyer, employer, the public and friends.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Unfamiliarity of effort, but with more skill and dexterity, will do the trick today. You are clever, know how to sell and talk. Use these gifts wisely and transform today into a big time for benefits.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Family, close friends and business associates can help you and you can help them now by sensible cooperation and doing one for another. Artistry, originality and perseverance are effective today.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Fine aspects, encouragement to give you stimulus to put over your activities in a big way are indicated today. Delicate matters, family affairs, the arts and most professions are in first place; trades, too.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)—Be adequate, but not self-centered. There is much to be done now by all of us. We all have a

HOW GOOD IS Ed Kazakovich, the Scranton University 6-4 stringbean who pointed-led the Royals past East Stroudsburg Teachers the other night?

From the voices around the scorers' table, one would gather that he is quite a ball player. Of course, most of these superlatives came from Royal fans who took up a quarter of the seats in the Warriors gymnasium.

But if you look into his makeup one can readily see that Big Ed doesn't need any tub-thumpers.

He's quick this junior from the coal fields. So cat-like, in fact, that he managed consistently to outmaneuver the flailing arms of three Warriors assigned to cover him whenever Kazakovich got the ball off the STC boards.

Flore Cesare has the lean man working in close where his height is a distinct advantage. And how he uses it—driving, hooking, spinning and tapping.

He added up 36-12 field goals and 12 fouls—and with any kind of a hot hand might have reached 50.

For many years Royal basketball diehards have been looking for someone to talk about. Since the days of Red Wallace, Les Dickman, Joe Morahan, Bob Pawling, Joey Thomas, the yells from the county seat of Lackawanna have turned to more murmurs. Now that they get "Kaz" the shouts are justified. He is that good.

Dick Luce did about the finest job of coaching against the Royals as one would want to see.

The Scranton defensive setup 1-3-1 zone was as tight as six gloves on a seven hand. But Luce found ways of getting by, using Charley German on drives and jumping one-handers and John Krysa on long one-handed pushers in the first half, and switching to a pivot attack with Mike Sentelick handing off or spinning for points in the second.

He still had Krysa outside in the final 20 minutes, and as such had the threat of Sentelick, Krysa and a driving-from-the-corner German.

With the smallest tools, Luce got the most from his charges. A little break here and there—more trips to the foul line and fewer giveaway points at the start—and the Warriors might have stopped Scranton's skein at eight. There was little you could say against East Stroudsburg. They played the contest by the book and covered Kazakovich as close as the cover. There was only one thing wrong, one of the pages was loose. But as we said before a little break here or there and the Luce over-all maneuver would have been a wonderful success. As it was it was far from a failure.

QUICK PICKUPS—Alvie Clapper, Stan (Stosh) Siproth, Roy (Nip) Nevil and Frank Weiler are rabid wrestling fans. The quartet journeyed to Phillipsburg, N. J., the other night to take in the grunge-grangers as guests of Irish Jimmy Brady, the promoter.

The newest addicts to matdom plan to take in exhibitions at the Laurel Gardens in Newark, N. J., and Capitol Arena, Washington, D. C., in the near future.

Bill Warner the guy who makes that delicious bologna, also was an interested spectator at the Phillipsburg matches which grossed $2100 in the not-too-large arena armory.

Pete Carlesimo, head football coach and director of athletics at Scranton University, was sweating out the Royals game with the Warriors the other night.

In its next start at home Scranton meets Upsala, and Carlesimo was hoping the Royals would enter the Saturday contest with a nine-straight win streak going.

Proceeds from the game will go to Pat Padden who is hospitalized with a serious ailment. Padden it will be remembered refereed scores of basketball games in the area and later went into the professional NBA. He also umpired locally and jumped eventually to the American Association in an arbiters capacity.

Trio Shares Tucson Lead

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 6 (P)—Frank Stranahan and two pros seeking their first circuit victories, Bill Johnston and Manuel De La Torre, tied today for the first round lead in the $15,000 Tucson Open golf tournament.

The trio scored 6-under-par 64s. John Barnum, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Jim Higgins, Anderson, S.C., who has never finished better than 17th in a major tournament, were one stroke behind.

Lionel Hebert of Lafayette, La., the reigning PGA champ; Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, and Tony Lema, Napa, Calif., were tied with 66s.

Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N.C., former U.S. Open champ, and Dew Finsterlin, defending Tucson Open champion, were among eight tied at three strokes behind the leaders.

West Virginia Posts 16th Win

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (P)—Top ranked West Virginia showed its class by coming from behind in the second half and shaking off scrappy St. John's of Brooklyn for an 87-78 basketball victory tonight. It was the 16th success in 17 starts for the Mountaineers.

Holy Cross, with Jack Whelan leading a second half spurt, defeated NYU 79-74 in the first game of the college basketball doubleheader at Madison Square Garden.

St. John's, now 10-3, upset the Mountaineers somewhat in the first half when they five times hustled from behind and took a 40-38 lead at the intermission.

Mountaineers Host Blue Bombers Five

BENT on chalking up its first second half Lehigh Valley League triumph and adding the not-often scalp of Palmerton High, Stroudsburg High's five quintet set its sights on the invasion of the Blue Bombers today.

The Mountaineers will entertain Palmerton in the new West Main St. gymnasium, starting at 8 p.m.

The Blue Bombers, defending champs of the LV, ended up the first half race in the LV in second place with a 5-2 record. In its second half opener last Tuesday Palmerton won.

Stroudsburg was 2-5 in the initial games in the LV and bowed in its second half start to Northampton.

Shook Up Team
Win Evans, displeased with his first half offense, shook up the Bombers for the second half chase and is featuring speed instead of height.

Stroudsburg will probably start Ted Williams, Ted Williams, Tom Gross, Johnny Gilpin and Dick Everitt.

A preliminary game will precede the varsity game at 6:45 p.m.

STC Bows On Mats To Bloomsburg

BLOOMSBURG—Bloombsburg Teachers' wrestlers sent East Stroudsburg STC down to its fourth mad defeat here Wednesday, defeating the Warriors, 24-7.

Two losses by decisions in the 137, and heavyweight divisions, and a deadlock in the 147-pound weight proved the downfall of the Warriors.

The Huskies used time advantages to pull out the wins and tie in the three classes.

Halstead Scores Pin
East Stroudsburg's points were scored when Dan Halstead pinned Pete Valina in the opening 123-pound match, and Lee Bolmar battled the Huskies' Walter Fake to a 4-4 deadlock in the 147-pound bout.

The summaries:
123-pound class—Dan Halstead (ESTC) pinned P. Valina in 6:50.

130-Jim Garman (Bloombsburg) pinned Hal Jordan in 4:40.

137-Bob Rimple (Bloombsburg) decided Allen Schaare, 5-4, time advantage.

147-Lee Bolmar (ESTC) and W. Fake (Bloombsburg) tied 4-4.

157-Bob Rohm (Bloombsburg) decided Jay Solits, 11-0.

177-John Childer (Bloombsburg) decided Hal White, 16-8-20.

Heavyweight—Stan Blalasky (Bloombsburg) decided Andy Gall, 4-3, time advantage.

Plans Changes In Court Lineup

EASTON, Pa.—Some changes in the starting lineup of the Lafayette College basketball team are contemplated by Maroon Coach George Davidson for the games next week with Muhlenberg and Rider College, both here. The Mules will be played Wednesday and Rider Saturday.

It is no secret that Davidson is not pleased with the record his team has made thus far this season. For the first time in more than a decade, a Lafayette basketball team faces the prospect of finishing a season on the wrong side of the ledger.

Williams Inks $125,000 Pact

BOSTON, Feb. 6 (P)—Ted Williams today signed what undoubtedly is baseball's best playing contract, his 18th agreement to play for the Boston Red Sox.

Estimates of his 1958 salary range to $135,000.

Then Williams, amiable as your best friend, and appearing several years younger than the 40 mark he'll reach in August, chatted with newsmen more than an hour.

Williams had spent that much time in conference with Joe Cronin, Sox general manager, before his signing was announced.

Said Cronin:

"It gives me pleasure to announce Ted has signed with a raise which is deserved. It's easier to deal with a .388 hitter (Ted's 1957 average) than any other kind of a ball player. While the meeting was lengthy—you know I only get a chance to talk with him once a year now. And if you fellows were as good financiers as he is you'd all be better baseball writers."

Never Divulge

Asked point blank if the contract was the biggest ever in baseball Cronin gave the customary: "We never divulge figures."

Williams, graciously answering questions of the newsmen, with whom he often has clashed, delivered these opinions:

"I don't feel any different than I did 10 years ago. . . . No, I didn't say that I think I can go on indefinitely. I wouldn't set a date when I might quit playing. . . . I feel wonderful and feel I can do anything I could do five years ago. . . . I'll play just as long as I can."

"I've always tried to play as well as I can for the ball club. . . . It may not be good but it'll be the best I can do."

"I've always said it has been my fortune to play for the best club in baseball."

Ted Happy

"Yes, I'm happy about my contract."

Williams didn't care to make any predictions about the forthcoming American League season beyond saying he thought the Chicago White Sox have improved the most through the trades made to date.

About his health:

"I'm in good shape, weigh about 220-222 and I hope to be about 212 when the season opens."

Williams set no schedule for himself except "I'll play as many games as I can."

Then just to set the writers straight he quipped:

"I'm looking forward to a pleasant summer. I'll be as far as I can with you guys. If I don't hustle get on me. But just because I might hit .280 in May don't say I should be benched. The first guy who writes some detrimental thing—something unfair, that hurts the team, don't come around me—and that's no."

Cavaliers At Nazareth In L-N Game

STILL fuming after its one-point overtime loss to Pen Argyl, East Stroudsburg High's court machine hoped to take out their tough luck on Nazareth today.

The Cavaliers meet the Blue Eagles in a Lehigh-Northampton League game at Nazareth, starting at 8 p.m.

East Stroudsburg has been running into close setbacks all season long, including a squeaker against Nazareth in the first half L-N chase.

Birds Riding High

However, since the Cavaliers last met the Blue Eagles, Nazareth has been riding high, winning seven out of its last eight starts.

Guided by Connie Shimer, the Eagles have been hitting the 70 point mark consistently since injured football players were able to rejoin the court squad.

Eastburg coach Doug Schoonover will probably go with his usual starters Jim Kindrew and Dale Metzgar, the team's one-two punch. Bill (Bones) Hillman, Alex Sydelnik and Johnny Hindman.

Kist Elected L-N League Vice Prexy

JACK KIST, East Stroudsburg High football and baseball coach, was elected vice president of the Lehigh-Northampton League at a meeting of the circuit officials last night.

Others named to the top officers were Wilmer Nester, Pen Argyl, president; Ernest Wescoe, Hellertown, secretary; and Carlino Berger, Wilson, treasurer.

2-Year Pact

In approved action by the whole league, it was announced that basketball officials will be signed to two-year contracts, with the stipulation that seven out of nine league court coaches okay the arbiters.

The track coaches set up a body to set the time and date for the annual L-N Cinder Meet.

Adoption of the 1958 baseball schedule, and the 1958-59 basketball schedule were also approved.

Howard Levy, of the Allentown Chapter of Basketball Officials and Kenneth Kresge, of the Bethlehem chapter, were present at the meeting.

Pocono Faces Barrett In Eastburg Gym Today

POCONO Township High's position on the top perch in the Monroe Scholastic Basketball League will be in jeopardy today when the league leaders meet second place Barrett on neutral East Stroudsburg High's floor.

Harry Werkheiser's pacesetters hold a one-game bulge in the standings and, by losing, could drop back into a tie with Barrett for the loop lead.

Streak Stopped
Pocono Twp. saw a 9-game winning streak go by the boards last Tuesday when Chestnut Hill slapped a setback on the Tannersville five. A week before the Hillers dealt the same kind of losing medicine to Barrett.

Joe Murray's team's only other loss was to Pocono Twp. early in the season at Barrett.

Makeup Tilt
The contest, a makeup game, will start at 8:30 p.m. A preliminary tilt between the junior varsity quintets of each school will ignite the night's court proceedings at 7:15 p.m.

The rest of the Monroe Scholastic League teams will be idle today.

Warriors' Quintet Faces Wilkes On Luzerne Court

A SATISFIED coach Dick Luce brings his East Stroudsburg State Teachers' College five to Wilkes-Barre today for a non-conference tilt with Wilkes College. Game time is 8 p.m.

Luce, far from discouraged over the Warriors' setback at the hands of arch-rival Scranton Tuesday, was cut short a day of drills preparing for Wilkes.

The game was originally slated for tomorrow night but was moved back a day because of a previous Wilkes commitment.

Drexel Names Hinkle Coach

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 6 (P)—Jack Hinkle, onetime half-back with Syracuse University, the New York Giants and Philadelphia Eagles, today was named head coach at Drexel Institute, succeeding Eddie Allen.

Allen, former star at Penn, left Drexel after eight seasons. A native of Milton, Pa., Hinkle was a blocking back for three seasons at Syracuse, where he was graduated in 1950.

Hinkle, his wife and three children now live at Jeffersonville, Pa.

Glen Brook Set To Open
GLEN BROOK Country Club and Golf Course will open this year, the Daily Record learned last night. The authoritative source said that plans to reopen the Stroudsburg suburban links is in the reorganization stage.

He said complete details of the Glen Brook inaugural will be released soon following several conferences with owners and stockholders.

WVPO Set To Air Game Tomorrow

RADIO Station WVPO will broadcast a play by play description of the Pocono Twp. High and Barrett Monroe Scholastic Basketball League game tomorrow from 2 to 3 p.m.

A tape recording of tonight's crucial MSL contest will be made at East Stroudsburg High's gym. Site of the game.

WVPO's Joe Whalen will be at the mike and Ernie Transue will handle the engineering duties.
